PROGRAM 1 Trade consulting: As trade issues arise, NCTO often commissions studies or retains legal and professional services of outside consultants, contract labor, and law firms as needed to research and review these issues. Monitoring market disruption from imports and providing funds for market research and studies to substantiate and remedy such disruptions is an important function of NCTO and is extremely beneficial to the manufacturing members of NCTO in particular. Any beneficial action for manufacturers ultimately benefits suppliers and affiliated members as well. Therefore, this type of service and action benefits all NCTO members to some degree. One such project was a study commissioned to review the changes to the yarn forward rule of origin in the CAFTA-DR agreement which would have devastating impacts on the Western Hemispheres textile and apparel industries. The report demonstrated the negative effects that global duty-free treatment for apparel would have on the CAFTA-DR region and the U.S. textile industry. Further, the report amplified the critical co-production benefits (investment, employment, environmental/carbon) that have resulted and can result in additional shift of sourcing from Asia to the Hemisphere. On behalf of the NCTO members and affiliates, NCTO is an important resource to government on issues affecting the industry.

4b (Code:) (Expenses $ including grants of $) (Revenue $)

PROGRAM 2 Public Relations Campaign: A continuation of the industry rebranding campaign entitled American Textiles -- We Make AmazingTM was designed to accurately define the 21st century U.S. textile industry. Themes and materials have been utilized that correct outdated and misleading impressions of the industry and that establish a baseline appreciation for the industry as a major employer, investor, innovator, producer, exporter, and competitor in the global marketplace. The campaign focus continues to engage NCTO members, media and influencers of industry policy.NCTOs PR campaign continues to be a major focus to amplify through social media the U.S. textile industrys efforts on PPE and the call for a long-term national strategy to support domestic production and paint a portrait for U.S. lawmakers, who may have never stepped into a textile factory. Our PR and social media efforts are aimed at showing members of Congress how the U.S. textile industry contributed to the nations PPE crisis after the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic and also demonstrating the importance of immediate policies and legislation, such as Buy American mandates, to establish a sustainable domestic supply chain for the future. There continue to be allied organizations who have partnered with NCTO on this campaign broadening the reach to go well beyond NCTO members only. The objective of engaging multiple organizations is to further spread a more positive message on behalf of the textile industry.To enhance the exposure of the textile industry in the medial, NCTO continues to work with Actualize Studio to maintain a website which was created in 2018 www.textilesinthenews.org showcasing the rebranding efforts as well as a site for the dissemination of artless relating to the textile industry. A weekly publication of Textiles in the News is provided to all members and associated affiliates and then stored on the website. This site is intended to educate a wide audience.There is also a weekly press round up that is assimilates news articles which make mention of NCTO and/or any of its member companies. The press round up is then widely distributed to NCTO all members and affiliates.

4c (Code:) (Expenses $ including grants of $) (Revenue $)

PROGRAM 3 Scholarship: NCTO awards an annual scholarship to a qualifying candidate for studies in support of the American fiber industry. This scholarship program has been administered by NCTO since 2018 and was established in honor of Paul T. ODay who served as President of the American Fiber Manufacturers Association (AFMA) for more than 30 years. A broad range of diverse studies including business, marketing, design, accounting, engineering, etc. is considered supportive of the American fiber industry. For a candidate to qualify for the NCTO Scholarship Program, (i) the parents or guardian of an applying child must be an employee of an NCTO member company and (ii) the children must meet certain academic requirements. The annual scholarship winner is chosen by a committee who reviews applicants who meet criteria for the scholarship.
