Part XIV Supplemental Information (continued)

1. The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This involves conducting market research to understand what customers are looking for and what problems they are trying to solve.

2. Once a market need has been identified, the next step is to develop a concept for the product. This involves brainstorming ideas and creating a rough sketch of the product.

3. The third step is to create a prototype. This is a small-scale model of the product that is used to test the concept and gather feedback from potential customers.

4. After the prototype has been tested, the next step is to refine the product. This involves making changes to the design and improving the manufacturing process.

5. The final step is to launch the product. This involves marketing the product to potential customers and distributing it to retail outlets.
