Energy Policy Program: Recognizing rapidly emerging developments in climate and energy policy, the Science and Environmental Health Network brings a deeply ethical and scientific perspective to local, state, national and international struggles over fossil fuels. We have two nationally renowned scientists on our team and they are very active in our campaign on carbon capture and storage (CCS) to evaluate and address new technologies proposed across the nation. We continue to moderate and participate in a major coalition on CCS that includes activists, scientists, lawyers and writers. This coalition is able to provide rapid-response research and analysis as well as provide experts for policy and media briefings. We continue to update and disseminate the findings of the 9th edition of the Compendium of Scientific, Medical, and Media Findings Demonstrating Risks and Harms of Fracking and Associated Gas and Oil Infrastructure, which is a renowned resource for policymakers, educators, activists, and health professionals.

4b (Code:) (Expenses $ 149,836 including grants of $) (Revenue $ 87,500)

Legal Program: The Science & Environmental Health Network provided legal and scientific expertise to grassroots campaigns working to protect water, climate and public health. We shared our 25+ year expertise in law, science and innovative policy through intensive local workshops, webinars, factsheets, workbooks, guidance and technical assistance. Consulted with regulators and members of the media about permits and monitoring regarding pipelines and other fossil fuel infrastructure around the country. Monitored changes in policy on state and national levels in order to analyze and share information on the associated risks to the community and broader public health. Incorporated the legal principles of the Commons, Free, Prior and Informed Consent, the Public Trust Doctrine, the Precautionary Principle and the Rights of Future Generations in environmental work around the country and world.

We provided scientific expertise to community groups and individuals who were tackling problems of pesticides, toxic chemicals in consumer products, contaminated drinking water and air, and carbon dioxide exposure. Conducted analysis, wrote white papers, and gave numerous presentations on the food-agriculture-climate connection as a strategic point for climate change mitigation and adaptation. Regularly provided content to numerous listservs of the Collaborative on Health and the Environment. Served as science advisor and speaker for the Health Care Without Harm Safer Materials and Healthy Food in Health Care workgroups.

Facts And Circumstances Test

Return Reference	Explanation
Part I: Additional Information	In response to the Schedule A Public Support tests, Science and Environmental Health Network received 25.81% public support in 2025. The organization meets the facts-and-circumstances test in Regulations section 1.170A-9(f)(3) because it maintains a continuous and bona fide program for solicitation of funds from the general public, community, governmental units, or other public charities, and other facts and circumstances as described below that satisfy this test.The organization maintains well-defined ongoing programs to accomplish charitable work by forging science, ethics and law into tools for action in service to communities, the earth and future generations.In 2021, the organization received a large grant from a trust that was spread out over three years that was given to initiate a new program and recruit more donors to support that program. We received a terminal grant of $250,000 from the trust in 2024 and will no longer receive funds from them as they are closing the trust.In 2021, our public support was at 34.11%, which allowed us to meet the public support test for that year and the two prior years (38.35% in 2020 and 43.96% in 2019). Given the larger donations received above from the trust over the last couple of years, our public support percentage decreased. We anticipate that in 2025 our funding portfolio will more closely resemble 2021 and we will be able to exceed the public support test of 33 1/3%.We are working on diversifying our income sources and have received funds from several new donors. Given our efforts, the number and diversity of donors has been increasing. We will be pursuing individual donors and smaller foundations to bring our public support numbers back to over 33 1/3%.
