Director's Corner:

How Can You Miss Me When I Won't Go Away?

I was changing the car radio station as we approached Sacramento last weekend when the dial landed on Dan Hicks and the Hot Licks singing, "How Can I Miss You When You Won't Go Away?" I turned the volume up. My husband looked over at me and laughed. That old song suddenly struck a new chord.

I said goodbye to all of you in my last Director's Corner, but it's time for another issue of The Works and I'm still here. Please let me explain. I will stay until JobTrain's next Executive Director is ready to take over. The search is lasting a little longer than expected, but it's a big step and the board knows it is worth doing right. Unexpectedly, I am enjoying JobTrain from a different perspective.

I feel more and more like the central character, Emily, in Thornton Wilder's classic play, "Our Town". In the play, Emily observes after her death that we humans go through life without really savoring it, without fully experiencing everyday moments and relationships. The limited time I have left to be part of day-to-day life at JobTrain intensifies my appreciation of its uniqueness: motivation sessions, the ringing job bell, banging hammers and grinding concrete, blood pressure clinics, the aroma of world-class dishes created by chefs-in-training. And I cherish more than ever the hope and determination I see in our trainees' faces.

Daily life at JobTrain is a kaleidoscope of brilliant moments: triumph and disappointment, epiphany and practical progression, and even life and death. A few weeks ago, a Culinary Arts student was shot and killed in East Palo Alto. A wave of shock and sadness swept through JobTrain. Our flag flew at half-mast. The entire Culinary Arts class attended funeral services. But during that same week, new students started their training and others landed their dream jobs. The rhythm and heartbeat of JobTrain is sometimes interrupted, but it never stops. JobTrain is strong. JobTrain is resilient. JobTrain is on the right track.

Breakfast of Champions XXIX Hits a Home Run

More than 800 people packed the Santa Clara Convention Center ballroom on May 3 for JobTrain's 29th Breakfast of Champions.

Master of Ceremonies Jan Hutchins announced a head table that included football greats Ronnie Lott, Joe Montana and Keena Turner and award winning TV reporter Rita Williams.

Women's basketball great Tara VanDerveer introduced the keynote speaker, USF Basketball Coach Jennifer Azzi. Jennifer's heartfelt and inspirational remarks set a high bar for the remainder of the program. Her message of not giving up after a disappointment rang true for JobTrain students who occupied more than a dozen tables in the room.

Actor, comedian, playwright and author Brian Copeland touched heartstrings and funny bones recalling the genesis for his two smash hit solo acts "Not a Genuine Black Man" and "The Waiting Period." "Genuine" is the longest playing one-man show in San Francisco history.

Michael Pritchard, the lovable award winning comedian, humanitarian and child advocate delighted breakfast attendees with his philosophical observations, funny stories and funnier faces.

A highlight of the morning was a singing performance by Krishna

Singing Sous Chef: Krishna Kinsey is a JobTrain Culinary Arts graduate who is now Sous Chef at the upscale Manhattan restaurant, Spigolo. Krishna inspired Breakfast of Champions guests when she poured her heart into singing "Today My Life Begins."

Kinsey, the JobTrain Culinary Arts graduate who is now a Sous Chef at an upscale Manhattan restaurant. Krishna belted out "Today My Life Begins" with soul and inspiration.

A top quality film based on the same song was created by teenagers enrolled in JobTrain's School after School Digital Arts program. The inspirational film captured hopes and dreams-come-true of JobTrain graduates. Student film-makers were assisted by their instructor, Matt Abaya.

Philanthropist Kathy Kwan launched a 2:1 challenge match for JobTrain from the Eustace-Kwan Family Foundation that is still in effect. Hewlett-Packard Senior Vice President Todd Bradley announced a $250,000 equipment grant to JobTrain.

By the time 9:30 rolled around, there wasn't a dry eye in the room. As one Breakfast attendee said on his way out the door, "I can't wait until the next one. This Breakfast is my favorite day of the year. The only thing missing was the Kleenex."

Get Ready to Party! Fall Gala is October 12, 2013

Enjoy the luxury of the Rosewood Sand Hill in Menlo Park and dance the night away to the sounds of Pride & Joy at JobTrain's Fall Gala on Saturday, October 12, 2013, from 7:30 to midnight. You'll enjoy hosted wine & spirits, lavish hors d'oeuvres, and a special performance by Jennifer Spingola, a Los Angeles based Electric Violinist.

This year's Gala Co-Chairs are Sukhinder Singh Cassidy, Founder and CEO of Joyus.com and Clay Jones, Executive Vice President & Mid-Peninsula Market President at Presidio Bank. The event will benefit JobTrain's programs and services.

To learn more about the Gala and how to become a sponsor or purchase tickets, please visit our website at www.jobtrainworks.org or contact Jasmine Baluyot at 650-330-6430 or jbaluyot@jobtrainworks.org.

Tee Up for Golf, Glitz and Glamour

Are you ready for a fabulous time? On July 29, 2013 JobTrain will host its 21st annual Golf, Glitz and Glamour event. The golf tournament, dinner and auction will be presented by KPMG LLP at the Sharon Heights Golf and Country Club. This event has become one of Silicon Valley's most popular charity golf tournaments. Please join us by becoming a sponsor!

The following sponsorships are still available: Dinner & Live Auction Sponsor, Reception & Silent Auction Sponsor, Gourmet BBQ Lunch Sponsor, Pin Flag Sponsor, Tee Box Sponsor and our special Fund A Cause matching sponsorship opportunity. Cooley LLP, Novo Construction, Presidio Bank, Asset Management, Atrium Capital, Volckmann Family Foundation, RR Donnelley, Clarence J. Ferrari, Paul Chamberlain, TA Associates Management, Wade Loo and Wells Fargo have already signed on to sponsor this fun and exciting event.

This fundraising event is chaired by JobTrain Board Members Mike Williams, Global Head of Cyber Security Sales at CSC and Richard Hanley, Principal-in-Charge of KPMG's Bay Area and Pacific Northwest Advisory practice. Last year's live auction showcased a ski trip vacation at Jackson Hole, a Lake Tahoe Luxury Vacation Home and a lavish trip to the Nation's Capital. One of the most popular auction items was dinner for 6 at the home of sustainable and organic restaurateur Jesse Cool. Will you be the lucky golfer who wins a Ferrari or Maserati? Golf, Glitz and Glamour raises significant funding for JobTrain program operations. Your fun changes lives.

To learn more about this exciting event and how to sponsor or purchase tickets, please visit our website at www.jobtrainworks.org or contact Jasmine Baluyot at 650-330-6430 or jbaluyot@jobtrainworks.org

JobTrain and Ravenswood City School District Receive J. Russell Kent Award for Innovation and Partnership

JobTrain and the Ravenswood City School District are recipients of the 2013 J. Russell Kent Exemplary Program Award from the San Mateo County School Boards Association. The nomination was submitted by James Lovelace, Ed. D., who is the Assistant Superintendent of the Ravenswood District.

The J. Russell Kent Award recognizes outstanding programs in San Mateo County public schools. The award program provides an opportunity for districts to share their most innovative and excellent programs with other educational groups and to learn about other county-wide educational efforts.

This winning partnership between Ravenswood and JobTrain, "Using Community Resources for Employment Development", provides JobTrain's Computer Service Technician students with a chance to gain hands on experience through Ravenswood

District internships. At the same time, it helps Ravenswood meet its need for trained technology staff. It is a mutually beneficial partnership that is ongoing.

The program was crafted by Jasmine Baluyot, JobTrain's Corporate Relations and Events Manager, and Dr. Lovelace. Interns work in the technology department on a variety of projects to gain experience in computer technology within a public school setting. They benefit from mentoring and guidance from Ravenswood staff. David Salgado was the first JobTrain intern to complete his service and to be hired as an AV Technician in the Ravenswood Technology Department.

The Ravenswood City School District and JobTrain received their award at a dinner held on May 20, 2013 at the Crowne Plaza in Foster City.

JobTrain Welcomes Two New Board Members

Jerry Hurwitz and Elvin Tyler have joined JobTrain's Board of Directors. These new board assignments reflect JobTrain's commitment to finding the very best of Silicon Valley to represent and lead the organization.

Jerry Hurwitz, CEO of J & J Air Conditioning

Jerry Hurwitz has a background as a vocational teacher in refrigeration and air conditioning at San Jose City College and is the co-founder of J&J Air Conditioning, a commercial/industrial air conditioning repair company in San Jose. Jerry is a longtime Bay Area resident. He and his wife have proudly supported JobTrain for many years.

Elvin C. Tyler is a finance executive with over two decades of success working in a variety of areas, including internal and external auditing. Elvin is the founder of Eagle Eye Advisors, LLC in Palo Alto, a firm that specializes in internal audit, risk management, fraud prevention & detection, Sarbanes-Oxley readiness, and process & systems improvement. Elvin grew up in East Palo Alto and dedicates his time to serving communities in need.

Building Trades Classes Move To Main Training Facility

If you hear the rat-a-tat-tat of a jack hammer and the beep-beep-beep of large equipment vehicles, you just might be at JobTrain. The Building Trades classes moved from the Annex to the main training facility at 1200 O'Brien Drive in Menlo Park, and those are the new sounds that emerge from our back-parking-lot-work area. JobTrain is bursting at the seams with more students and training activity than ever. Nearly 50 more students are on campus now, donning hardhats and carpenters overalls, and adding to JobTrain's positive energy. All three courses – Project Build (carpenters), Laborers Pre-Apprenticeship and Solar – utilize both classroom and outdoor work space for their training. The laborers class recently added a new component in Spanish.

JobTrain Partners with Ravenswood To Launch School Bus Driver Training

JobTrain is happy to announce that a new short-program to train school bus drivers will launch in July. The School Bus Driver program is a 60-80 hour course that will qualify graduates to drive school buses, city buses, shuttles, taxis and other public transport vehicles. The training is offered in partnership with Ravenswood City School District. Half the course will take place at JobTrain and will consist of safety, CPR and protocol training. The other half of the class will be behind-the-wheel training at Ravenswood City School District.

Enrollees in the course must have clean driving records, no history of convictions, and must pass a medical examination. School bus drivers earn between $16.00-$27.00/hr. The San Mateo County Labor Market Information Index projects a 25% increase in demand for these jobs by 2020.

Trainee of the Month Winners Overcame Challenges

JobTrain's energy is a hallmark of the organization, and once a month we really raise the roof! At interactive "Motivation Sessions", representatives from every class share with the entire student body and staff what motivates them. They top it off with a song or poem. Motivation Sessions are also a time to recognize the class with the best attendance for the month and students who have achieved 100% attendance. Finally, the greatest honor of all is announced: Trainee of the Month. Please meet our most recent Trainee of the Month winners:

Leevonne was raised in a single parent household with his 11 siblings. By the time he was ten, he was already in trouble with the law and he spent his early adult years in and out of prison. Leevonne has never had a job. When he was released recently from a six year prison term, a local minister referred Leevonne to JobTrain. He started his classes in February 2013 and has proved to be a hard worker who takes pride in everything he does. Leevonne is highly motivated, has an incredible work ethic and interacts well with his classmates. He is on time to class every day and has perfect attendance. Leevonne has made a 180 degree turn in his life, and he is heading straight toward success.

Guadalupe (Lupe) Lara,
Medical Office Assistant

Guadalupe Lara is a single mother of two boys. She is a hard working and reliable student in JobTrain's Medical Office Assistant class. Both of her children have serious medical problems, but Lupe manages the delicate balancing act of caring for the boys, meeting her classroom obligations at JobTrain, and progressing toward her goal of a better life for her family. These are Lupe's 2013 Resolutions: 1) To be the best mother for my boys; 2) To give my boys the medical help they need; 3) To provide for my boys 4) To go back to school; 5) To get a job; 6) To have a place for my boys to call HOME, no more shelters or hotels. Lupe has already achieved many of these goals, including finding an excellent health care resource for her children. She intends to work and pursue a degree in Social Work so that she can help others. Lupe was recognized for her selflessness, determination and quiet strength. She will make an excellent employee in the healthcare or social services field.

Mental Health Services Offered Onsite at JobTrain

For years, JobTrain teachers and counselors have been hoping to find a resource for onsite mental health services. Finally, as part of a grant agreement with Tipping Point and Stanford University, JobTrain will have a part time MFT (Marriage and Family Therapist) intern on site to provide therapeutic counseling services. Dr. Daryn Reicherter of Stanford University is heading this project with Drs. Rebecca Rialon Berry and John Rettger. This is a ground breaking collaboration, with no known precedence for mental health services in a non-clinical environment. JobTrain clients will have the opportunity to meet one on one with a qualified clinician and will have Stanford doctors available for referral. Staff will have self-care resources available, and will be trained on topics including stress reduction and coping techniques.

Free Tax Prep Returns $1 Million to Families

Did you know that JobTrain offers free tax services to local low income residents? In its fourth successful year at JobTrain, the tax program helped more than 800 people file their 2012 state and federal tax returns, resulting in more than $1 million dollars in refunds. The program works because of a solid partnership with Tax-Aid and Single Stop USA. Tax-Aid recruits and trains volunteers to prepare individual state and federal tax returns, business taxes (Schedule C), immigrants filing ITIN, prior year returns, and early IRA distributions.

More than 2,200 tax returns have been filed since JobTrain began the tax program in 2010, bringing over $3 million dollars back to our community in the form of tax refunds. Our partner, Single Stop USA, brought the program to JobTrain.
