

Bravo Programs of America Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Statement

At Bravo Programs of America, our approach to diversity, equity, and inclusion is simple — we embrace everyone. Together, our scholarship students, all-volunteer staff, partners, supporters, and affiliations, represent all ages, religions, races, ethnicities, and life views.

We accept applications from any student that meets the conditions outlined in our mission statement. And, we consider only the merit of the student's request when making scholarship decisions.

A variety of opportunities are available to anyone wishing to offer their talents and time to support our mission. A volunteer role may be one-time or ongoing. Time commitments range from a few hours to several hours a month. A volunteer may work independently, on a team with other volunteers, or with our scholarship students. Most volunteer work can be virtual, making it possible for someone to contribute regardless of physical location or any physical limitations. In short, we seek to create a team environment that allows all kinds of volunteers to succeed and contribute meaningfully.

We align ourselves with partners, supporters, and civic organizations that believe, as we do, that everyone is welcome to join our cause, and that each voice is important in creating solutions that support our mission.
