Form 990 - Organization's Mission or Most Significant Activities

The Wildlife Conservation Society saves wildlife and wild places worldwide. We do so through science, global conservation, education and the management of the world's largest system of urban wildlife parks, led by the flagship Bronx Zoo. Together these activities change attitudes towards nature and help people imagine wildlife and humans living in harmony. WCS is committed to this mission because it is essential to the integrity of life on Earth.

Form 990, Part I, Line 6

Wildlife Conservation Society has volunteers in all of our parks. These individuals assist in our education efforts as docents, or may be inside an exhibit with a rare animal or artifact. They provide information on WCS's animal collection to our visitors. Our FOZ (Friends of the Zoo) volunteers donate their time for a minimal two year period while they learn about our living institutions, our global programs, animal habitats, and educational programs. They are trained by WCS staff and are encouraged to attend educational classes. Volunteers may also be interns studying veterinary, exhibit graphics and design or other specialties, usually earning school credit or service hours for the time they are at our facilities. Our New York Aquarium has volunteer divers who assist us in maintaining the water quality of our exhibit tanks. They are experienced divers, who accumulate dive hours towards maintaining their diving

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a - First Achievement

WCS staff showcased our work on species conservation, conservation finance, wildlife trade, wildlife health, and other issues before a diverse audience of 5,000 conference attendees. Our Landscape/Seascape and Protected Area Achievements included WCS providing support to rebuilding of the Virunga National Park, Africa's oldest park, and home of mountain gorillas. In India, after six years of efforts by WCS, the state of Karnataka approved a 160 sq. km. extension to the Anshi-Dandeli Tiger Reserve in the Western Ghats landscape; In Afghanistan WCS worked with Afghan communities in the Wakhan region to establish the Wakhan Pamir Association, a 42 community led institution for managing resources. In Cameroon, 15 years of WCS biological surveys, were instrumental in the creation of Takamanda National Park. The park protects over half of the world's Cross River Gorillas. Our COMACO Program in Zambia achieves conservation by providing food security and markets for 23,000 households. We are investigating the feasibility of extending the program to neighboring Malawi. Our wildlife highlights & discoveries consisted of the following: in April, we announced the discovery of a previously unknown population of Irrawaddy dolphins, one of the world's rarest coastal dolphins. We will work with the government of Bangladesh to create a protected area network for the dolphins. WCS Malaysia, in partnership with the Malaysian Government, completed surveys indicating a population of over 600 elephants in Taman Negara National Park landscape, one of the largest and most important Asian elephant populations in Southeast Asia. WCS conservationists helped to uncover two bird species in the rocky karst forests of Lao PDR-the bare faced bulbul, which is the first of its kind found in Asia in almost 100 years, and the limestone leaf warbler, again in this region. In July, we announced the identification of a new species of tamarin. Researchers dubbed the monkey Mura's saddleback tamarin, named after the Mura Indians, the ethnic group of Amerindians of the Purus and Madiera river basins, where this species exists. A team of scientists led by WCS discovered the world's largest nesting population of leatherback sea turtles, along the Atlantic coast of the Central African nations of Gabon, Republic of Congo, and Equatorial Guinea. Our Global Climate initiatives included the creation of our Carbon for Conservation strategy. We are designing our projects to be consistent with emerging international policies known as Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Degradation (REDD). WCS participated in the climate change talks in Poznan, Poland and at the United Nations Climate Change Conference in Copenhagen. We have joined leaders from six nations to protect the world's epicenter for sea life, the 2.5 million square mile Coral Triangle.

Our "ONE WORLD, ONE HEALTH" Global Health Program initiative promotes international and interdisciplinary strategies for sharing information on the movement of diseases between species. In 2009, WCS joined in the creation of a comprehensive strategy promoting global health known as PREDICT. Participating in this initiative, WCS aims to foster better awareness of and preparation for potential disease outbreaks that affect us all. This year, as in the 114 that preceded it, WCS worked in a world waiting for discovery, challenged by global change, and connected through our health, economy, and a common concern for the future. 2009 has made it clear that the recipe for future conservation success will include creative applications of science, engagement around the world, education in our communities, and forever- "muddy boots" on the ground.

Notable among the births this year were a new okapi, a Malayan tiger cub, and and African lion cub, Moxie, the first African lion cub born in the Bronx Zoo in 31 years.

This past year saw the opening of a new aardvark exhibit; a new spotted hyena exhibit; an outdoor platform for feeding the giraffes was also constructed to provide an intimate animal encounter opportunity for special guests and donors. Our Animal Behavior program has continued to improve on its established animal training programs. Goal oriented programs have been expanded to more species including large crocodilians, camels and several new species of birds. Our painting program has expanded to include elephants and most of our sea lions, and additional species are expected to be included in the future. The animal departments across all of our facilities have collaborated to develop a comprehensive behavioral management program across the species in the collection.

Our Education Department provided formal education programming to over 26,000 students at the Bronx Zoo, in addition to providing live interpretation, animal encounter talks, and Wildlife Theater Programs. The Bronx Zoo successfully completed its reaccreditation by the Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA). This process which is required every five years, includes an on-site inspection by a team of zoo peers from around the country.

All aspects of the Zoo's operation were evaluated, including animal care and management throughout the facility. In Fiscal 2009, WCS completed construction of the Center for Global Conservation, the first phase of the C.V.Starr Science Campus at the Bronx Zoo. The 43,000 square foot facility houses our global conservation programs and provides much needed conference and meeting spaces. The buildings design, (LEED-Certified

This is our second LEED certified building. At The New York Aquarium the new Aquatic Animal Health Center was operating at full capacity this year and is dedicated to the care of more than 11,300 animals of 380 species. The clinical laboratory houses sophisticated scientific equipment for hematology, microscopy, and water quality analysis. Five foot deep pools provide isolation wards which maintain optimum freshwater, brackish, or seawater conditions for hospitalized or quarantined animals. Other features include a decontamination room, an animal food kitchen, an in-ground scale for weighing animals, and a 30 foot diameter pool for rescued stranded animals and other aquarium patients. In February 2009, WCS completed its first all-park Master Plan. The plan is a Facilities Condition Assessment for all of our 270 buildings in the city across our five parks, and has identified a bold set of priorities for the next decade. Also completed was a Master Plan to establish priorities for enhancing our parks over the next five to seven years. The plan's goal is to further connect people to wildlife and wild places through innovative exhibits which immerse guests into the habitats and lives of wild animals. In turn, these experiences encourage guests to make

Through glass or a mesh panel, visitors will be able to admire these magnificent endangered cats close up. The City Zoos continue to bring wildlife to visitors from all over the world. A new addition to CPZ's Tropic Zone exhibit was a troop of seven black and white ruffed lemurs. This primate species is aptly named for its bearded visage and black and white fur. Their loud, shrieking calls compliment the cacophony of sounds already in the zoo's Tropic Zone. The addition of this group will showcase WCS's ongoing work to establish protected areas in Madagascar, where the ruffed lemur is endangered due to hunting and habitat loss. Along the Prospect Park Zoos Discovery Trail, two red pandas have taken up residence.
This pair will hopefully breed soon as part of the Association of Zoos and Aquariums Species Survival Plan, which seeks to maintain healthy, genetically diverse captive populations. Further along the planted pathway of gardens, marshes, and scrubland, are more new zoo residents, western tufted deer.

Migration Playground teaches kids about bird migrations and traveling songbirds while they swing on the monkey bars and zip down the spiral slide. An endangered species climbing-wall and an Invasive Species Station that features the Asian long-horned beetle offer hands-on learning experiences and an introduction to wildlife conservation. Queens Zoo has become more green with its addition of two eco-tricycles, replacing golf carts and other modes of transportation carrying out daily deliveries and other zoo business.

NOAA Regional Partnership Grant Program continued to work with local not for profit communitiy based organizations on various environmental programs and projects. WCS successfully secured an additional $999,000 in funding in October to add to our second cooperative agreement. This funding will be used for restoration, and public education; as well as allowing access to the rivers comprising the South Bronx waterfront. Additionally, WCS will seek finalization of a new grant that will provide approximately $1.5 million in funds to local groups and agencies working collectively on community based goals. Wildlife Conservation Magazine reached the end of a long and proud tradition of publishing this 112 year old magazine.

The magazine which was first published as the News Bulletin of the New York Zoological Society in 1897, has made the difficult decision to cease publication due to the financial crises and the general decline in the audience for newspapers, magazines, and other print publications. In its place WCS has come up with a new redesigned website which will provide member news, information on each of our parks, calendars of events and a host of ideas on how to support the ongoing mission of WCS.

Form 990, Part VI, Line 15a - Compensation Process for Top Official 15a & 15b

Under the WCS bylaws, the Human Resources and Compensation Committee of the Board of Trustees has the responsibility and authority to fix the compensation of all corporate officers. That Committee decides the form and amount of compensation for the President and Chief Executive Officer and senior managers. The Committee is composed of persons without a conflict with respect to its compensation decisions. The Committee relies on appropriate data as to the reasonableness of compensation and documents the basis for each decision at the time the decision is made.

The Committee reviews the performance of the President and Chief Executive Officer annually. After such review, the Committee makes its decisions regarding the President's compensation. The President provides the Committee with an annual assessment of the performance of senior managers. After discussing the performance of each with the President, the Committee makes its decisions regarding each such senior manager's compensation.

The Committee regularly consults with advisors, including compensation advisors who are engaged directly by the Committee, and regularly commissions competitive analyses of executive compensation from such advisors. A representative of the compensation advisory firm is present to advise the Committee as it deliberates and makes compensation decisions. Regularly as needed the Committee consults with outside legal counsel regarding Committee procedures and decisions.
